

Rainbow Acres is featured on Tulsa television station

Kristin Dickerson, Good Day Tulsa host and reporter from KTUL, Channel 8, visited Rainbow Meadows Equine Rescue and Retirement, Inc. recently. Two segments were taped. The first one was about the work of the ranch in the rescue and care of abused, abandoned, neglected and slaughter-bound horses. The second about the need for volunteers to assist in the one-on-one care and attention that the horses need and deserve.

Co-founders Karen and Dave Everhart were interviewed about their motivation and passion for the work with the horses and the purpose of this public charity. Dawn and Paxton Kerley were interviewed about their volunteer work as well as the opportunities they have had to further their experiences with horses, including the fact that both are taking riding lessons from Centered Riding Instructor, Karen Everhart. In addition, the Everhart's leased one of their personal ranch horses to Paxton so that she could show in the 2007 4-H fair. Karen was instrumental in providing Paxton with the necessary coaching to allow her success in her first show.

The story will air on Good Day Tulsa on Thursday, Oct. 11, between 9-10 a.m. Everyone is encouraged to tune in.
